Article 2, relative to the purchase of new hand fire engine for Ward 2, was then eting, and Alvah Raymond, Jr. moved that the town make such purchase, and raise and appropriate not exceeding $2,000 for the purpose.

E. S. Beals, Esq, stated that there wa

no provision in the article for raising the money, and consequently all votes on the subject could not be carried into effect. He dwelt at some length upon the merits of the different engines, and moved that the six articles relating to fire engines be referred to the Board of Engineere, that body to report at the next annual meeting. A motion to amend the motion of Mr. Baymond was made by Z. L. Bicknell, Esq.

asserted that Mr. Besls' motion was in order; but the chair deciding aversely, Mr. Wilmot Cleveriy appealed from the decialon, and the question of appeal was put to the house, and the Chair was sustained by 317 in favor of his decision to 173 op-Mr. Raymond's motion was then in or sider the vote, considering it a hasty and lil advised action, as there was no power in the warrant to raise money. He dld not object to Ward 2 baving a new engine if necessary, hut it was doubtful if there was money in the treasury for purpose of

J. W. Bartlett, Esq., favored the motion, though be was willing to give Ward 2 a new engine, if the Board of Engineers would come before the meeting and say that it was needed, and would vote for one

Mr. Bicknell said that at the meeting of the Englneers when the subject of a new engine ln Ward 4 was discussed, lt was deemed inexpedient to take action, as the town meeting was drawing near; but a meeting of the town was called, and an engine procured without a word being said in regard to there being no money on hand to appropriate. He dld not sign the petition for the present meeting, but he now thought it expedient to get a new engine.

Thomas Humphrey, Esq. said we had precedence sufficient to raise and appropriate money for the purpose in question, and hoped that there would be no reconsidera-a good fire department, and brought np the subject of a steam fire engine to be located at East Weymouth, thus furnishing efficient protection. With such an engine we need no further meddling with the little traps which will require a new engine every time the last one is vanguished at a answer on country roads when they were nuddy and soft, as the fire box was too near the ground.

The motion of Mr. Humphrey to reconslder the vote was then defeated by 315 nays to 117 yeas.

J. I. Blcknell then moved to appropri ate $2000 to carry the vote into effect, when Mr. Humphrey said the action of the meeting had exbausted the power of the article, and further action upon it would be lilegal, as the town had put it out of their power to proceed farther by refusing to reconsider the action which disposed of the article. The chairman put the motion of Mr. Bicknell, and It prevailed by 344 year

Article 3 referred to the choice of a committee to carry the preceding votes into effect, and on motion the chalrman appointed Messrs. Stephen Cain, B. S. Loveli and Wm. T. Rice as said committee. Articles 4, 5, 6 and 7 were laid on the ta-

Oh yes, my faithful dog must have The statute right to roam, And not be chained like galley slave, And pine away at home.

The brow of scorn may on me lower The lip contemptuous bend, I'll eherish still the loving power Of my dear canine friend.

I know that he will never spurr The friend that treats him well, Nor like some mortals, basely turn For gain, and friendship sell.

Like you, my dog, might be; When 'aeath the adverse blast we bend, As constant found as thee.

For never yet the bruised sou To thee its ills can trace, Nor envy did thy heart control,

To seek thy Iriend's disgrace The deadened heart, 'gainst nature steeled, May rent its venomed spleen, From such are virtues ne'er revealed

My little dog, ir cheers me well, When toil of day is o'er, To see thy gambols round me tell

You welcome me once more. To tell of waste ls idly said, Or point to scanty means, My trusty dog shall share my bread.

Ah yes, my little dog, with you My last crust will I share; la you is lound the friendship true, In human kind so rare.

Dy lit its origin, so successful in its details, and so joyous in character that it deserved more than a passing notice. A short time since the Lodge appointed a committee to make arrangements for this celebration, hnt this committee was soon given to nnderstand by a committee on the part of the lady friends of the Lodge that further ac- have been placed upon the banner than the tion was unnecessary. This notice was coupled with an injunction of secrecy and recommendation to exercise faith.

At the appointed time a company of over two hundred in number assembled (whether the ladies attended by invitation of the Odd Feilows or vice versa has not yet been satisfactorily determined). A programme of much merit was put into the hands of the Neble Grand, consisting of readings and musical selections. Mrs. G. B. Bayley, Mrs. J. C. Howe and Miss M. B. Linfield sang a trio with good effect, entitled The Woodiand Concert. Mrs. A. F. Builock gave a reading appropriate to the occasion, illustrating the unswerving devotion of a Lodge to a Brother who had died of contagions disease. Miss Annie J. Deane with excellent voice, sung (accompanied by Miss Ida Rosenfeld) "Go Softly; Go Safely." "She wanted to be an Odd Fellow" was read by Mrs. W. H. Joy. This piece was adapted to the occasion and was very impressive as well as suggestive. A Harmonica solo given by Bro. E. S. Wright (accompanied by Mrs. Wright) "brought down the house." Mrs. G. B. Bayley, accompanied by Mrs. Curtis showed the audience in a solo that "There are as good Fish in the Sea as ever have been canght." Mrs. J. L. Curtis then faored the company by reading a selection

The crowning feature of the evening was the presentation to the Lodge of a rich and elaborate Banner, beautiful lu design and exquisite in workmanship. Mrs. Dr. Tuck, in behalf of the ladies, in well chosen lenguage and with much grace made the resentation address as follows:

In reading his second inaugural address, I could hut notice with what wisdom he ranted charters to lodges. How well he prepared the way for those who would take his place in the future, in this grand enterprise; truly, he was a noble specimen of English enthusiasm; he posessed great courage, perseverance and executive ability; his powers of organization were beyond comparison; he was the right man in the right place, and at the right time; he was chosen "Most Worthy Grand Master " of Maryland, Feb. 7, 1821; was elected "Most Worthy Grand Sire" of the was expected. Mrs. Ryan, widow of the late Benjamin Ryan, died on Wednesday noon at her residence on Washington St. Although she had been ailing lu health for some months sire was able to be about the house until Saturday, when she called in her physician. Her disease was rheumatism and an affection of the heart. She was in great distress, particularly during the last night and the few hours of the last day of her life. Death came quietly and suddenly at the last, and she was at rest, safe in the urms of Jesus. She was for many years a consistent member of the First Church, and was always ready with her contribution to sustain the different beneficent societies an example of constancy in her attendance upon ail the meetings of the church and the regular church services. The prayer meeting was her special delight, and nothing kedt her away while she was able to go. She felt it a severe privation to be unable to attend church and the prayer meetings during the last two or three months of her life. A klud neighbor, a good tnother and grandmother, a consistent Christian, her death is felt in the neighbor. hood, and yet it is a comfort to her friends to know that she is asleep in Jesus, where the cares and pains, sorrows and tolis of earth will never make a ripple in the quiet of her perfect peace. Funeral services in the church Friday afternoon at two o'clock. One of the wickedest things was done last Friday night that has ever come to our knowledge. Dea. Perly Steadman, a good old man, who is one of the most inolfen sive, kind-hearted men we know, has for the last ten years been much interested in the care of bees, having spared no pains to make a success of raising them. He had for a long time, as by the above mentioned eleven hives in good order with young bees enough in theur, as he estimated, to lill ten or twelve hives more when they should swarm. Not long ago he paid $20 for four Italian Queen bees, and he watched the progress of his hives with the deepest interest. He has been doing no business for some time, and the care of these little fellows has been a delight to him. Last Friday night some unaccountably mallelous individual or individuals put melted brimstone at the mouth of each hive, lired it | Hen Thieves went to his hives Saturday morning every bee in the eleven hives was dead. The Ilraintree Temperance Union held lts April meeting in Lyceum Hall, last Sabbath evening. Notwithstanding the severe storm between one and two hundred assembled to listen to a lecture by Re-Geo. N. Marden, of South Weymouth. The meeting was opened with singing by the cougregation, after which selections of Scripture were read and prayer offered by Rev. Thos. Emerson. The report of th Secretary was then read. After the singlng of another hymn, Rev. Mr. Marden was introduced and delivered a very interesting, instructive and entertaining lecture, taking for his text the passage from Isaiah When the enemy shall come in like a flood the Spirit of the Lord shall lift up a standard against them." He showed the fearful cost of intemperance and the enormous loss to the United States, taking the official statistics of 1870 as a foundation upon which to show such cost and loss, and then proceeded to tell what could be done to benefit mankind, if this very large amount of money was turned into the channels of benevolence, closing with some excellent advice to all, especially to the young, as to their treatment of alcoholic drinks, and those who are wedded to the vile habit of using them, also giving words of encouragement to all workers for the suppression of the evil.

Any community wishing for a temper ance lecture that abounds in good, telling points, given in quaint, original and interesting manner; one which will be remembered by old and young, and set people to thinking and talking upon this gigantie evil, should seml for Rev. tieo. He came into the intelligence office with one pantaloon leg telescoped into a man of unlimited resources, bought a number cleven cowhide, and three cowhides in his maddened eyes. Closing one eye and drawing his hat over it to keep it in that position he leaned up better was required. Everybody had against the door and gave a detective sold their truck and taken Hawk's curglance around the room. The widow Maloney, waiting for a laundry position, was there. John Chlishan, lately discharged from his Honor the Mnyor's employ, was there, and Uncle Billy, the that the people refused to receive it any agent, was there. As quick as he saw longer, it having become so plentiful as him, that is, Uneie Billy, he gave a to be worthless. "Don't stop me, mon; if that's so, a twenty-dollar bill is yours," and in a moment his eowhides were counting off the dollars down the Arcade stairs. Uncle Billy gave a sigh of relief, and the smiles now danced over his face as be thought of making another home happy and of the twenty-dollar note. Most people love to be philanthropists if it pays, and Uncle Billy was not an exception. An hour passed off and a change came over his dreams and antleipations. A medley of angry words came from below and they neared the office. Then the door was burst open and the original Hannah lloward was on deck, followed by Mr. How. Not the Hannah with three front teeth gone from her jaw, etc., etc., but Hunnah Howard, fifty years old, weighing two hundred, and black as the fifteeuth mnendment. It was evident that there had been a mistake, and Uncle Billy trembled in anticipation of coming events. They came.

"Oh, the onnary trash," blurted out Hannah, as putting and wheezing she waddled up to the railing. "The hathen uigar," answered back

"I'll have you 'rested foah invading my honse, you drunken Irisher you,' almost shrieked back the African.

Union Engine Co. held their annual meeting last Thesday evening. The report of the Treasurer, Mr. W. H. Metirsgor, represented the rompany as in a good condition fluancially. Previous to the election of officers for the ensuing year, Mr. J. S. Henry stepped forward, and in behalf of the company presented Mr. T. O. Sullivan, foreman of the company since its organization in 1875, with a good Springfield watch, procured at the store of one of Weymouth's young and enterprising business men, Mr. E. H. Frary. Mr. Sullivan was taken completely by surprise, and was mable to say more than to express his thanks, he was so overcome by his bedings. We hardly think he knew how popular he was with the company, nearly or quite all the members having contributed their nail towards the present.

BATES' ADVERTISING AGENCY. Mr. J. H. Bates, lately senior partner in the newspaper advertising firm of Bates & Lecke, at No. 34 Park Row, having succeeded to the business of the firm, has rented and fitted up rooms in the Times building, No. 41 Park Row, New York. Mr. Bates is one of the nidest advertising agents in the city, having been in the business for a great many years. He was for a long time a partner with Mr. S. M. Pettengill, with whom he continued until 1873, at which lime he formed a copartnership with Mr. D. R. Mr. John Driukwater, who has the eare of the engine, heard the sound and shut off the steam as quickly as possible, and then took the boy off. His sufferings were of short duration, death coming to his relief in about ten unintes. This sad affair has cast a gloom over the whole community; the dear little fellow was believed by all who knew him, his Sabbath and day school teachers allke speak of him with love and respect, as a faithful, obedient and lovable child. His funeral services were held in the First Congregationalist Chirch, Thesday morning at ten o'clock. After a prayer at the house the funeral procession started for the chirch, bis Sabbath School class going as bearers, and his class in day school following as unurners. "A using of beauty is a joy forever," and in this ancient town there are many beautiful objects, some created by dwne nature, and others the mark of man. An one the latter we find the Thayer Accademy, the solders' Monument, and that $33,000 Library, all located at the South part of the town. In East Braintree we have an institution peculiarly our own, which is a thing of beauty (2) and if not, a joy forever. It must be a source of pride and gratification to our citizens for many years to coine. The writer telers to that picturesque (?) sheet of MOUTH DRUG STORF, Weymouth, MASS.

It must be hearthy appreciated by those who dwell in the vicinity. It is shown to strangers as one of our local institutions, ranking with the "Thayer Academy" and the "Public Library," both of which we are very proud of, and always show to strangers as the fions of the town. Why talk about a park around the Little Pond, when we have a pond in East Braintree which is not surpassed in beauty (2) by any in the miverse! Here, if there were proper accommodations, the lover could wander in company with his adored along the verdant banks of the beautiful, meandering Monatiquot, (the Eden of rivers<sub>1</sub>) their uhactories greeted with the delightful odors which enamates from that vicinity, and their voices blending in uniform with the creaking of frogs. The convolvescent could spend, hours here for health's sake, and those of apparatic proclivities might have ample means for either boating or hathing. As a whole, it really seems as if man, nature and the elements, had combined to make this what it is—a beautiful spot.

Mr. Edgar P. Cooper told me he had a cure for Rheumatism. I was at that time suffering from a severe attack of Scialic Rheumatism. I have had it for five years and have Iried everything that was offered for sale, but could gain an relict outil I tried Cooper's Great Rheumatic Ture. I used two bottles and I can say today that I have not been troubled with it since, and think I ameultrely cured. I give this to the public to show that it is no humbag, but a sure and radical cure of Rheumatism. I advise every one that is suffering to-day from Rheumatism to try this great cure and be happy. I am now 63 years old. Signed. GEDIGE MANUEL, Commercial St.

I. Charlotte Phillips. of East Weynouth. Mass., aged 75 years, do bereby testify that I was troubled with a secere pain in any foot and ankle, and could not walk or step on it, and was obliged to give any daily work. I knew that it was a had case of Inflammatory Rheumatism. but could get nothing to relieve it. I told my hesband about it and he advised me to try Cooper's Great Rheumatic Cure it legot a hottle and I applied it. and in less than half an hour I could walk as woll as ever I could. I have not been troubled with the pain since, and I know that Cooper's Great Rheumatic Cure is the greatest biessing that was ever given to monkind. Surely the Great Jehovah uspired this young man in promalgating this Great Cure. It has since cured my busband, Welliam Phillips, of Scialic Ilheumatism, and I want all the world to know of this great Cure. I am now very old, and will soon be called to meet my Heavenly Father, but during my shay on earth I shall always sound the praises of Cooper's Great Rheumatic Cure.

When we pull aside the curtain and see vided that it was not his own money the reality of Wall street life, what a fearful array of wrecks and grim skeletons there is! How few of even the had'nt. When he died, there was found great leaders have dled rich or were £10,000 in his boxes, and money scatpermanently successful! The number tered about everywhere, a great deal of can rendily be counted on one's tingers.

There was Jacob Little, who begun books, of different dates, and in every with nothing but became the great teader of the Street; accumulated a colossal fortune. Three times he failed, hut re- was anything like the quantity of trincovered; but his old age falled irretriev- kets and trash that was found. He had nbly. Still clinging to stock speculation, never given away or parted with anywhich had become a passion, he haunted the Street as a specter where once he tity of hair-women's hair-of all colors thad figured as king. Where then were the millious which he had accumulated? and lengths, some locks with the powder and pomatum still sticking to them, Gone, scattered, lost. Poor and unof his triumphs-a Wall street wreek. Another name famous in the Street came into the street poor, astouished the Street by the bolduess of his operations, made a fortune of three ntillions and became the recognized leader. The ten years ago a financial writer said:

of lesser operators, Cornelius Vanderbilt and Daniel Drew are the central Titauic figures. . . Sooner or later the money of the smaller tribe of speculators finds its way into the pockets of these mighty giants." How are the mighty fallen! The Titan of the stock market, once worth from twenty to thirty millions, who ruled the market as a klug, who gave royal gifts to church and charity, is to-day a baakrnpt-a Wall street wreck. A volume could be filled with similar histories of other ruling spirits in Wall street who were successful for a time, whose successes and triumphs were heralded everywhere, but who, in the end, met a common fate and became only Wall street wrecks.

These disastrous failures occur not only among the great operators who aspire to control the markets, but their number is largely increased among that far larger body of speculators of whose individual histories we have no knowledge. We hear of the few, the very few, who win a fortune on the treacherous sea of speculation, but we do not hear of the thousands who come down into the Street and lose their all-and often more, too. Where one is successful a thousand fail. The adage says, "Dead men tell no tales." Neither do the unlucky in Wall street tell of their misfortunes. How sad is the history of some of these lesser speculators! There was a bank clerk in an interior town, who tuade thirty thousand dollars in successive strokes. Then he offered himself to a fair young girl and promised her the rarest of bridal glf1s, and put the whole of his money in the Street. The market turned, his stocks plunged downward, his brokers sold him out, his money was all gone, he was hopelessly involved, and his troubles made him insane. Thus he too was added to the list of Wall street wrecks. During the exciting days of the war, a man with a little capital came into the Street. He was cool, cautions and successful. He determined to make $250. 000 and then quit the Street forever. He made $249,500-just $500 short of the full amount of his ambition. One little turn more to make that missing $500 and then he would be done with speculating. Ah! that one little turn! He made it; found himself on the wrong side of the market; made larger ventures to repair his losses: still the market weut against him, and ln less than thirty days he lost all he had and thirty thousand dollars of borrowed money beside: last all hope for the future, and in less than another mouth more, died n heart-broken mun in an attic room of $20 t a wretched tenement house-n Wall was unexceptionable. While at a national meeting of Christian Associations, in which he took a conspicuous part, telegraph wires were flashing the inteligence that he was a defaulter to a large amount. What was the cause? Early, he had indulged in a little stock speculailon; took from the firm alittle money to regain his loss by another venture; hls ventures continued disastrous and and devious which so naturally gather monor, and lategrity, and fidelity. He about Wall street, sees, perchance, some was thought to be safer than a savings stock, the present favorite of the street, bank, and had in his hands immonse advancing or declining in wild fluctua-tions; he takes his little pencil and cal-widows and orphans, religious and charculates what he might have made by itable associatious. The settlement of buying and selling at the right time. his affairs proved him to be a defaulter He is astounded; he thinks he has dis- to an immeuse amount. He had speccovered a "short air-line" to wealth; he ulated, sunk his own fortune and also eovered a "short air-line" to wealth; he ulated, sunk his own fortune and also thinks of nothing else; dreams of columns of fascinating figures, of big bank stead of leaving his family a princely of hand of furnished to order; also, ROBES and ANNER.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. occasional use will provent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent haldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dan-gerous, and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm

it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil not dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre and n grateful

There lately appeared in some of the papers a statement like the following:

King Alphonzo, of Spalu, spends all the time that etiquette allows with his bride, the Princess Mercedes, and his spare muments, snatched from the care and auxiety of managing his kingdom, are spent in talking with her through a telephone."

i am afrahl that Prof. Bell, when he invented that useful little article, had not sufficiently considered the step he was taking, and that it may not be of much henetlt, after all.

Take the case of Alphonzo, for instance. In the lirst finsh of love's young dream, when his whole heart is bound up in his young laide, and his mlud tilled with evil thoughts about the stupid and impracticable court rules , which prevent him from spending all his time with his heart's delight, it is not strange that he should consider the telephone a Blessing ami its inventor a benefactor. Now he feels that, although distance intervenes between bls lovely wife and himself, yet with the abilid the telephone he can hear her dear voice. and can breathe into her willing ear renewed pledges of his undying devotion. While his prozy mluisters are trying to drive blin to distraction with stories of a new Carlist rebellion, or another aprising in Cuba, he can shut bis ear to their dismai tales, and leaning over to the tejephone, ladd sweet converse with the Queen on more agreeable matters. Happy Klug; thrice happy Merceles: useful little tele-Hat let us look in upon them five years hence. Alidionzo has now grown stout. and his face has taken on that florid hue so becoming to a King, and so common with them since the days of Prince Hal and that stout old knight, Sir John. He thinks nothing of putting down a rebellion in Cuba every week, and has no appetite for breakfast unless he has captured a baml of Carlists just after getting out of bed. But the cares of a large and constantly increasing family give him anxiety, and questions of low they are to be clothed and fed ocemy his mind. He spends sleepless night walking around his chamber, a sick and crying baby in his arms, with an irritated wife threatening to leave and go home to be unother. He eagerly prays for the dawn, so that he may thy away to his office and time relief within its quiet retreat. But, alas! even there there is no peace.

Just as he has settled himself to the mornhig paper and a fragrant Havana, comes a tearful voice along the wire, saying that baby is very sick, and he neast go right to the drug store after a bottle of Mrs. Whislow's Snothing Syrap. And so it is all day long; complaints, if everything does not

Att elegant barouche to which was attached six beautiful black horses, taking the lead; In this were the famous Novella Quariette, of Boston, and the agent, Mr. L. H. Wentworth; following this, came an English Tandem team, drawn by two powerful bays; in this team were the proprietors, Messrs, Edgar F. Cooper and William Cooper, distributing chenlars, over sixteen thousand being disposed of. During the evening the earayan was stopped before all of the principle hotels and the Quartette displayed their fine vocal powers to advantage. This being merely an advertising venture, none of the "Great Rheumatic Care," was offered, for sale. Had such been the case, thousands of bottles would have been quickly disposed of eager demands being made for It on every side. Last Saldath forenoon Rev. Thomas

Emerson preached a most excellent discourse to the young, taking his text from the 1st verse of the 12th chapter of Eccle siastes. The afternoon session was devoted to the anniversary exercises of the S. Sehool. The exercises opened with singing by the school, reading of the Seriptures and prayer by the pastor. A song very well rendered by a class of little boys, followed, after which Mr. Vinton, in an address, gave some Interesting facts in regard to the early history of the school, This he said was the 61st anniversary. (1) years ago, amld some considerable opposithan, the school was, formed with five teachers and lifteen scholars. He displayed a record book, yellow with age, which he said contained the first record of the school with its constitution and bylaws. He read a letter from one of the first members of the school. He also mentioned some of the prominent members of the school who had gone to their reward in the past years, speaking with feeling of the more recent death of one of the joulds who was so suddenly called home a few days ago. After a song from a class of little glris, Mr. Wm. F. Locke, the Secretary for the past five years, read his annual report. Total number of school 261. There has been 52 sessions during 261. There has been 52 sessions during the past year, with a total attendance of 0.846, a gain over last year of 1.142, making a part over last year over last year of 1.142, making a part over last year of 1.142, making a part over last year of 1.142, making a part over last year over last year over last year of 1.142, making a part over last year over last year over last year, with a total attendance of 1.142, making a part over last year, with a total attendance of 1.142, making a part over last year ov ing an average attendance of 189. Amount of penny contributions $80.44, a gain over last year of $3.44. He said that of the three faithful teachers in the lufaut department, only one had been absent during the year, and that one only one Sabbath. fle inferred from that fact that teaching was healthy. Dea. J. Ward Childs then gave the Treasurer's report and his closing report as Supermtendent. He said the connection had been an ex-ceedingly ideasant one for him and he felt grateful for the hearty cooperation he had met with from teachers and puidls. fle re-Music and Drawing. because it is not posjoiced that in taking his heave as superintendent he was not leaving his active work in the school. He spoke of the four deaths during the past year, recalling the names of Fred Morrison, Mr. Elisha French, Dea. Elias Haywood (for twelve years the supertendent,) and Bertha Hamilton, paying a touching tribute to their memories, and mentioned the death of Fred Drinkwater, which accurred just upon the threshold of the new year. A song from a class of young ladies followed, and then the recitation of class mottoes.

There was a song from a class of young ladies and gentlemen, followed by an address from the pastor. This was followed by an essay from Mrs. A. B. Kelth, subject "Christ the Light of the World." ft was an able effort, well written, very well read, and listened to with the deepest interest. An address by Mr. 11. S. Thayer followed, foll of eachest, practical truths, and given with somuch annuation that it was listened to with close attention. He referred to a reminiscence mentioned by Mr. Vlnton, of the early days of the school, viz: that 40 bibles were given to those who learned the catechism during the year. He said he was one of those who received a Bible and held up the identical Book; it had been rebound but was a very good Bible still. Mr. Wm. f. Locke here read a paper expressing the regret of the school at the withdrawal of their loved superintendent, their pleasure in the connection and their heartfelt good eration. A resolve relating to report of wishes for him in the future. This was adopted by the school, every member rising and product by the school, every member rising and product the desired to Messrs. The session continued nearly four hours and the time was so fully occupled by important topics that much matter of interest was crowded out. Weymouth was represented by Mr. Lewis, Mrs. Hawes, and the Superintendent. John Quincy Adams, Esq., presided, and d. Mason Everett, Esq., of Canton, acted as Secretary. Mr. W. H. The assignments are made for six periods of a half-year each and are stated with great definiteness and amply illustrated. Geography is excluded from these years altogether. Nothing is said of sible for the small towns, large in number In the county, to give good Instruction In these branches yet. "Slow at Ilrst, sure at last," was evidently the motto of the committee. Number is to be taught by irube's method of development, the four operations at once, and by objects before using lighres, to 4, to 10, to 15, to 20, in the four periods of the lirst two years. In the other four combined basics children are to begin, without a look in class, by writing words and sentences taught by the teacher from objects and the blackpoard. They are to have a large amount of "Primer and First Reader," Reading and Composition during the first three pe riods, and to be prepared to read Intelligently at sight new reading of that grade at the end of two years and of the Second Reader grade at the end of three years. In Arithmetic, two years will give com plete development of number to 20, and three years make sure of addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division of numbers to 1000, multipliers being limited to two figures and divisors to one figure Special emphasis is laid upon object teaching and upon the solution, by the pupils, of problems that require thinking. Mr. Battles of Randolph reported for the committee on Truaucy, and after a discussion tending mainly in favor of the establistment of a county Truant School, the report was recommitted for further consid-

There are three stated hours of prayer; four minutes after sunset, at nightfall, at daybreak or after sunrise, a little after monday, and in the afternoon. The Prophet fixed the time of prayer a little after smuset and smurise to avoid the appearance of sun and star-worship, which he had to contend with in Arabin. The muezzin of the mosque announces the time of prayer from the minuret by chapting the "Adan," or call to prayer, in these or similar words: "God is most great. I testify that There is no deity but God. 1 testify that Mohammed is God's apostle. Come to prayer! Come to security! Prayer is better than sleeping. God is most great. There is no deity but God." Besides prayer, the Korau enjoins fasting, almsgiving and down on the curbstone and tried to die pilgrimage to Meeca at least once in a • man's life, as the chief exercises of themselves and started down the street piety. Gleen's Sulphur Soap, besides eradicating local diseases of the skin, banishes defects of the complexion, and imparts to it gratifying clearness and smoothness.

Sulphur Baths are celebrated for curing eruptions and other diseases of the skin, as well as Rheumatism and Gout. Glenn's Sulphur Soap produces the same effects at a most trifling expense. This admirable specific also speedily heals sorts, braines, scalls, burns, sprains and cuts. It removes dandruff and prevents the hair from falling out and lurning gray.

This Sarsaparillals a combination of vegetable olteratives—Stillingla, Mondrake, Yellow Dock—with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and Is the most efficacious rocalicine yet known for the diseases it is intended to cure.

Its ingredients ore so skilfully combined, that the full olterative effect of each is ossured, and while it is so mild as to be harmless even to children, it is still so effectual as to purge out from the system those huparitier-and corruptions which develop into loathsome disease.

The reputation it enjoys is derived which develop into toathsome disease.

The reputation it enjoys is derived from its cures, and the confidence which prominent physicians all over the country repose in it, prove their experience of its usefulness.

Certificates attesting Its virtues have accumulated, and are constantly being received, and os many of these cases are publicly known, they furnish convincing evidence of the superiority of this Sarsaparilla over every other alterative GEO. S. BAKER,

RHEUMATISM

FOR the last five hundred years, thousands have experimented in attempts to bring to perfection a radiust care for one of the greatest afficious of mankind, the giant Rheumatism. Of the many renedies now used for this great evil, there is but out at will permanently erre and drive away this great sufficion. EDGAR F. COOPER, of East Weysmouth, has at last discovered and perfected a scale AND RADICAL CURE FOR THE WORST CARES OF

RHEUMATISM, SCIATICA, NEURALGIA, LAMENESS STIFF&CONTRACTED JOINTS

This specific has been practically rested and basalready curred several of the worst cases of Sciatte Riberyaatts. The persons naived are residents of East Weymonth, and can restly themselves to the right of this statement. One has had the compilation for five years, but could not find anything that would give relief until he tried our cure. The first apply callon gave instant relief, and he now week's time he was entirely curred. This was over a year ago, and he has not had a taugh of it since.

The following restliancials are presented in proof of the shove statements, and others who have been cared are ready to testify to the value of

Doctor Ottignon's Experiment,

Associating as she did with Mabel's friends, it was not a great while before Juliet began to desire to be allowed to attend school with them, and she no sponer expressed such a desire than It was granted. As the niece of Dr. Ottlgnon, related to Mubel Eustace, aml an intimute friend of Elemor Lamont, she would have been well received by

Juliet had no ambition to excel all others; for her own sake she had no desire to wia a prize; and yet, had she wished for both, she could, for a while, have made no greater effort. But the evenling previous to the drawing of subjects, she overheard a conversation between two of her schoolmates which dampened her ardor and induced her to relax her efforts. "Every one knows," said one of them.

"that whoever is chosen to deliver the valedictory generally takes the first prize. Of course we all know that although we shall do our best, either Juliet or Elemor will succeed. Elemnor will be dreadfully disappointed if that she wants, and still we know that she is more auxious than any of us to win the tirst prize."

"It will not be very easy for the julges to decide," said the other. "Inllet says very little, but she never fails letter which he was reading, and exin anything, and she can write fully as well as Eleanor can. I wish hoth could wln, for I like them both; but there can be only one first. FRIDAY, MAY 24, 1878.

The annual recurrence of the day when the very city and town the memory of the patriot dead is honored with due observance of pageant and story and offering of flowers, has become an event of such general public luterest that a presentation of the arrangements made by Post 58, G. A. R., for the duties of the necasion, is eagerly booked for by the public, and the adjuand of the Post, by order of emimander It. S. Lovell, has issued the General Orders for the day, which we publish below. The citizens of the several Wards have ever respended einerfully and liberally to the request of the Post for donathons of flowers. and the contributions will no doubt be aberndant and varied.

Our citizens, in addition to this expre slon of interest in the welfare of the Post, will have an opportunity of manifesting their benevolence by aiding the charitable work of the Post with a general attendance al the concert to be given in the evening particulars of which will be found in the advertisement. The merits of the artists secured for the occasion are of the highest order, and the special feature of the entertalmagnt, the talented Swedish Lady Voca Quartette, is sufficient inducement to secure one of the largest audiences ever gathered in the Town, Hall. We are anthorized to state that this will be the recy bist time the Quartette will appear in this country, as they sail for Europe June 1st, in the steamer Batavia, and mone should fail to improve this closing opportunity of listening to their beautiful vocalization The Schukert Club, of Boston, provide the instrumental music, in connection with Miss Lillian F. Chandler, the wonderful Child Violinist, and Mr. Thomas Senia. Xylophone Soloist. The list of attractions presented in the programme shows that the committee of the Post have, as assual, determined to provide un entertainment which will please the most fastidious and cultured musical taste, and it remains with the public to show their appreciation of the efforts of the committee by filling

TOWN AND VIGINITY.

The ladies of the Baptist Society gave an entertainment in the vestry of the church last Wednesday evening, presenting a pleasing variety of tableaux, reading, music, etc. A novel feature of the entertainment was a "deaf and dumh" interval. when all were required to abstain from conversation and laughter, under penalty of a forfeit for every transgression. Attempts were made during the interval to create a current of fan which would excite the mowary to inswitting violation of the edict, and many were caught in the act, paying their lines with promptness. The tables were spread with a repast of cake and pastry, and doughants similed with redtom wool and other substances were passed around among the "deaf and damb," their exchaninations of simprise when the contents appeared, adding to the pile of forfeits.

"German Syrnp." No other medicine in the world was ever given such a lest of its curalive qualities as Boschee's German Street. In three years two million four hundred thursand small botths of this medicine was distributed free of charge by Druggists in this country to those affected with Consumption, Asthma, Croup, severe Conghs, Proamment and other dise, ses of the throat and langs, giving the American people undeniable proof that German Syaue will cate them. The result has been that Bruggists in every town and village in the United States are recommending it to their customers. Go to Alfred Wanan, Druggist, and ask whal he knows about it. Sample bottles, to cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Three doses will relieve any case.

TURES,

STORMS ON MOUNT WASHINGTON.

The past winter the most terrible gales ever witnessed by man visited this heavy smumit in January. The hulldings, to resist these gales, are, by various devices, fastened and braced at every point of the compass. Notwiticshinding these precautions they are sometimes torn away.

The first of the great storms of remarkable severity occurred in 1878, on the 19th and 11th of January. At 7.37 A. M., the exposed thermometer stord of rain water, with a wooden bowl of 220, and the wind from the southwest blew 54 miles per hour. At 9 A. M. Hie wind had backed around to the east and attained a velocity of 96 miles per hour, accompanied with sleet and rising temperature. The storm did not come in theful gusts, but with a steady pressure, beneath which the walls of he Station trembled as though on the point of being swept away. At 11.22 his basket. The first immersion and P. M., the last regular observation for friction of the hands in the water let the day, the corrected barounter recorded 29,403 In., with the wind still east and blowing 120 miles per hour. There was no sleep in this mountain dwelling Intense dark green. that eventful night, as the tempest grouned, seethed and thundered around towheaded son, "take in this basket and it, threatening momentarily its annibilation and causing the stoutest heart to Then, turning to his dishonest neighquail. At 2.30 A. M. the windows on bur, he said, "You hooked them tomathe east side were broken, making merry work for the three inmates, the wind blowing 150 miles at a temperature of knew in a minute. Here's your basket." 220. The storm shutters with the greatest difficulty were adjusted, harred and holted. At 4.30 the aneurometer recorded the frightful velocity of 186 miles per hour, the highest ever known in the United States if not in the world, while at 5. A. M., the columnation of the tempest, it being impossible to expose the instruments, the velocity donbtiess reached to 200 miles per hour. At times, the props fixed outside to hold the building would vibrate with deafening noise, while every article in the house seemed to rattle. "It seemed as if ten thousand thousand of Indian spirits, inspired by their monitor, the traditional God-dweller of the Summit, had made an ouslaught intending to pitch house, observers and all into the yawning, blackened depths of Tuckerman's Ravine. At times there would he the most violent bombardment and fearful hartering of ice against the building. Beneath the force of the terrific blasts every plank and timber trembled and grouned as if in agony, and the fiful gusts as they beat the battered walls seemed to speak their demoniacal wrath in thunder tones."

RE HESITATED.

He was a man of good family, comely person, and noble mien. Nature had done much for him. In youth he learned rapidly, and without excessive toil. His interance was ready and natural, At a proper age he studied a profession. Good hopes were entertained of him by many. All his friends knew him to be anniable. Some thought him truly pious,

But even in childhood and youth he manifested a singular lasitancy. If the other boys proposed to go a-fishing, a-marting, or a-hunting, he seldom made any objection. He was too amiable for that. But even when he stated mu ofjection in his mind, he hesitated till others were off on their expedition. On their return be sometimes expressed deep regret at not having joined them. He did not seem to be indolent, or selfwilled, but he hesitated.

Before he finished his professional studies he had good offers. They ought in have been seized. But for some cause, unknown to others, he hesitated He may have expected something better to present itself, or he may have distrusted his own powers to till the post. The patience of others was exhausted Win it he at last resolved to accept one of the offers, he found the place tilled He had lost it by hesitancy.

"A friend, having business of imporlance, offered him a trip to the West A prompi answer was requested. He took a week to decide. Ere the week was ended another had gone and settheir the business, carned a small sum of money, learned some useful assons, and laid the foundation for a good repmation for efficiency and promptness. In matrimonial affairs some are rash most are prompt; hat our friend was meither hasty mor pushing. He was from time to time interested in several ladies; yet he never committed himself to any one of them, until others had preengaged their affections. Poor fellow! He often spoke of his bad luck. He said fortune did not favor bine. Others knew that the cause of his disasters was that he unduly hesitated.

INTERRUPTING A WEDDING.

Mr. James Ebler and Miss Martha Cluffer were married in the Pamrequi Methodist Episcopal Church on Tues day evening. Some young men of the place lad conspired to make the occasion one for a series of practical jokes, which were carried out, to the great annovance of the bridal party. A wire had been attached to the tire bell, and a cannon was placed in the rear of the church, within six feet of where the minister stand. As the guests were approaching the church scurrilous eirenlars were distributed and carried into the church. As the ceremony was about to be begun one of the conspirators entered the bridal coach und directed the driver to drive to the La Toursette House of Bergen Point after mythical guests. As the clergyman was about to pronounce the couple man and wife, at a given signal the bell was rung and the cannon was fired, creating great consternation in the clairch. The minister dropped his book and forgot to make the thal declaration. The coach was kept away so long that the bridal party was compelled to walk to the depot-

Yesterday warrants were issued for the arrest of the ringleaders.

THE TELL-TALE TOMATOES.

·Where did you get those tumntoes? sked an old Long Island farmer last summer of a neighbor, whose real estate yields a product of nil, and on which there was not a tomato vine. His basket was full of very the ripe specimens, which he thought he recognized. It was not the first time suspicion of fits impermitions neighbor's honesty had erossed his mind.

"Where did you get 'em?" he asked again.

"Ulought 'em."

"Ah! Let's look at your hands,"
With his basket on his arm he held nmmer of a neighbor, whose real estate

If any country reader of the foregoing would test this discovery of a theft, let him pick one or two tomatoes next season, separating the vines with his naked hands, then wash them. There is a mysterious something about the plant, perfectly colorless, that remains on the hands till the waters remove it.

Some of the monasteries of Italy and France send carious inventions to the Paris Exhibition. A Florentine friar has constructed a watch only a quarter of an inch in diameter. It has not only a third hand to mark the seconds, but a microscopic dial which indicates the days of the week and month, and the proper dates. It also contains an alarm, and on its front cover an ingeniously cut figure of St. Francis of Assisi. Or the back cover two verses of the Te Denm are distinctly cut. A monastery in Brittany, France, will contribute a plain looking mahogany table with an inlaid draughts or chess board on the surface. The inventor sets the pieces for a game of chess, and sits alone at one side of the loard. He plays cautionsly, and the opposite pieces move automatically and sometimes checkmate him. There is no mechanism apparent beneath the table top, which seems to be a solid mahogany ENJOY LIFE.

M.R. EDOAR F. COOPER & Co., East Weymouth.
Dear Sirs:—I have been laid up for two weeks with inflammatory Rheumatism in my left arm which was swellen to about four lines its natural size, and was very painful. It began to swell so rapidly that I became slarmed and called in two doctors. They tried remedles without success, and at last painted my arm with lodins to keep the swelling from going into my breast. I was then suffering terribly, but could gain so relief. A friend brought me a bottle of your Great Rheumaile Cure, and, after using it conc. my arm became quite limber, the swelling began to disappear and in half-a-dazen application was as well us ever, Mine was indeed a wonderful cure, and I shall never be without your invaluable relied.

Doctor Ottignon's Experiment.

BY BELLE BEECHWOOD,

CHAPTER XI. Nearly eight years had passed since Maurice Eustace and Jose Navarro went away, one to China and the other to England, and neither had given any intimation of an intention or a desire to return. Maurice, it was well known by als relativos, had been very successful and had accumulated a large fortune ception in this country." independent of his father's. Little had rice, who kept up a constant correspond ence with him, frequently made menion of him in his letters, and Dr. Ottiguou loarned from his friend Carvl

Lamont, that Jose had proved of great value to him. He was in possession of a very large icome; he belonged to an old and disinguished family in Cuba; he had reeived a thorough education; was easy and pleasing in conversation, and renarkably good looking. Consequently, he was admitted into society lu London from which, with the strong prejudice of the English nobility against people iu trade, he would otherwise have been debarred. With Mr. Lamont, Caryl's father, he became at once a great favnrite: the old gentleman confided to him all of his business affairs, and from him he learned, but not till he had known him several years, that he was likely at any time to succeed to a title and become an earl. That being the ease, the title would eventually descend to his sou Caryi, whose daughter would be the Jose remembered her as a little giri, rather pretty and very bright. He had not outgrown his ideas in regard to nobillty; he knew that he was liked by her futher and her graudfather. She was then, or very soon would be, a young lady; why should he not see her. and before others had learned how much of a prize she would be, take ad vautage of his knowledge and of his position, should he decide to do so, to viu her for himself? The daughter of au English earl, and sole heiress to the immense wealth of her grandfather and hor father, even Jose Navarro could hope fur, could expect nothing higher.

The evening of the lifteenth of December arrived. Caryl Lamont's spleudid residence was brilliantly Illuminated. Carringes dashed up to the door and discharged their occupants, ladies and gentlemen elegantly attired. At our end of the long drawing-room stood Mrs. Lamont to receive her guests; at her right was her daughter Eleanor, at white silk; on their necks and arms and pendant from their ears sparkled and hasbed diamonds, opals and pearls of immense value. Dr. Ottignon, with weakness which he would have seorned n another, had determined that his child should on that occasion appear second to none. Her beautiful halr waving in clusters of ringlets of golden brown around her forehead, hung in natural curis upon her snowy neck, and one moss rosebud, fastened in her luxuriant tresses, rivalled the brilliaut coior in her cheeks.

With an ease and grace which surprised even those who knew her best, she divided the houors of receiving the doctor, Reien and Mabei passed, guests with Eleanor and her mother.

All turned to glance again at the brilliant trio; for Mrs. Lamonst was still a very handsome woman, and Eleanor mass till a very handsome woman, and Eleanor hand never before appeared so well. But Juliet, who was somewhat sall a leaves the property of the property o lng, who had requested of Mr. Lamont the honor of an introduction, and who had taken her from her place beside the lady of the house.

At one of the entrances to the draw ing-room stood two gentlemen; they had been there several minutes and no one appeared to know them. Both were elegantly dressed, but not exactly as the other gentlemen were; and their was a foreign appearance about both, an Indescribable something which Indlcated they were strangers. One was naturally dark, with very dark halr, mustaclie, and eyes. The other was naturally light, with light bair and beard and blue eyes, but his face was bronzed, either by long travel or by exposure in a warm climate.

At length the dark one spoke: "We invited ourselves here, and we nust introduce ourselves, I suppose. We used to know this house and the people who live here, but I have almost orgotten both. However, I flatter myself we shall not be considered intruders. Will you lead the way or shall I? Ve must find Mr. Lamont."

Before his companion could reply, Juliet floated by where they stood; the embodiment of grace, a lovely vision she seemed.

"Did you see her, did you observe that young lady?" asked the one who had spoken before. "I got but a glimpse as she floated past, but I uever beheld such a face. It was worth a voyage across the Atlantic, that one

"Why, yes, I saw her, but not long enough to be so wondorfully struck as you wero. You have forgotten that benutiful girls are the rule, not the ex-"Not such as that one; but come, let

They advanced into the room; the waltz was concluded, and Juilet was standing nneo more beside Mrs. Lamont.

"There is that heautiful girl now," said the one who had so much admired her; "and the lady beside her is our hostess. That, then, must be Eleanor: how strongly she resembles her mother. I would not have believed sho would grow up to be so very beautiful. I will ntroduce myself at ouce."

He moved towards them, followed by his friend. The throng of guests around Mrs. Lamont was for a moment essened, and she saw the two gentlemen approaching; but sho recognized

"Good evening, Mrs. Lamont," said the darker of the two. "We have taken the liberty to come uninvited but we trust not unwelcome guests; but von do not remembor either of us." "You really do have the advantage of me," roplied the lady; "and still, I feel that I should know you." "And this young lady has forgotten is also," he said, turning towards Julict, who was gazing very earnestly from beueath her long, dark cyclashes. 'I have not forgotten you, Mrs. Lament, and I recognized Miss Eleanor here by her strong resemblance to

He bowed to Juliel as he spoke, and she colored painfully, for she could not misunderstand his words, but knew that he had taken her to be Elennor. Mrs. Lamont turned very pale, but be fore she could speak, her strange visitor continued, not noticing the effect of his words;

"Since you have so completely forgotten us, I must introduce, first my friend from the far east, Mr. Manrice Enstace, then myself, at your service, Jose Navarrol'

" Maurico! is this Maurice!" exlaimed Juliet. Then, regardless of the mistake which had been made, she prang towards the spot, not far distant, where Dr. Ottiguon, his wife and Mabel stood, and sahi aloud, so that Jose and Maurice both heard her: "Uncle Jules, anut Helen, Mabel, Maurice has come. Maurice Is here!"

For although she had not, that she new, ever seen him before, his name and been familiar to her for years, and she had grown to look for his return at some future time as if she had always knowu him. Mrs. Lamont recovered from her urprise at seeing Jose Navarro sutticiently to bid him welcome, and from her confusion at the mistake he made o say to him: "That is not Eleanor; it is Dr. Ottlgion's niece, my daughter's most valued friend, the sweetest, dearest girl in this world, Juliet Averell." How the meeting between Jose and

At last he could control himself no I do not know when they would have longer; he was a superb waltzer, he saw seen me again if it had not been that Juliet standing beside Mrs. Lamont, Eleanor was already on the floor with Maurice, and he made his way to Juliet and asked her to dance. She assented without hesitation, and for a few minutes Jose Navarro felt more completely happy than he had ever felt before in

After their waltz he led her into the supper room, and then they wandered nto the conservatory. There he discovered a benutiful rosebud which he ook the liberty to plack.

"Pardon me," he said; "the bnd in our hair is very slightly faded. Allow me to replace it with this." She bent her beautiful head and allowed him to make the change, saying:

"You must not toll unelo; that bud e placed in my hair." And she did not observe that Jos instead of casting the slightly fuded had side, thought it still retained enough eauty to induce him to keep it.

When the larger portion of the company had departed, Manrice and Jose related how it imprened they were present. Several months before, Maurice wrote to his friend, stating that he should be in England in December, intending o arrive home at Christmas. Jose replied that he would be ready to accompany him, and suggested that their visit should be an entire surprise. They started from England several days earlier than was neccessary under ordinary circumstances to insure their arrival by Christmas, and arrived on the afternoon of the 15th. At Dr. Ottignon's house they were told of the party at Mr. Laiont's; they returned at once to their hotel to dress, and dld not hesitate to attend the party unlaylted. The hour was very late when they all eft Mr. Lamont's; but the doctor insisted that Maurice and Jose should go home with kim. Mr. Enstace, who did not attend the party, was aroused from his slumbers to welcome his long absent soa, and the sun was shining brightly in at the parlor windows before the joyful company separated to exchauge their evening dresses for morning cos-

Juliet appeared at breakfast looking as fresh, as bright and beautiful as she did the night before, and Jose envice the doctor when he gave her, as he never ailed to do, his morning kiss.

After brenkfast the young men left Mabel observed, "at present I must say for their hotel and to obtain from the teamer the packages of presents which they had brought. When they were h the street together, Jose sald: "Maurice, why did you not let me know more about that lovely girl, Juliet?

These have a right to the protection of the nation's strong band, and the dead who fell by shot and shell or under wasting disease, even the humblest private of the ranks of our country's defenders, is honored to-day by the glory of their death. They are the children of the State, baptized by fire, making her name tandous throughout the Union. There was the assurance of faith in the nen who enlisted for the fight when multitudes prophesied disaster, who made their service a matter of conscientious devotion to the cause of freedom; and can any wonder that we should honor their memory? TRIRTY MINUTES OF AGONY.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Jasper Thumbledirk, who is forty-three years old and tumastried, dropped, in at the depot to ask some questions relative to the arrival and departure of trains, and while passing through the waiting room, he was accosted by a lady acquaintance who wished to go up town to make some little purchases, but didn't want The mother thanked Mr. Thumble-

Mr. Thumbledirk, with a strange flutter of his feelings, iied, and said he would be only too delighted. Then he took the "Thumbledirk and said he took the "Thumbledirk and said he took the "Thumbledirk and said he took the "Thumbledirk". took the buby, and the ticket agent, who has two, knew by the manner in which the man took the bnby, and iooked anxiously from one end of it to the other to see which end of it the head was on, that he had never handled a human baby before in all his life, and promptly closed his windows to shut out the translated windows to shut out the trouble that he knew was on the

A short denee with a fine lot of shoes as snonyoung wemanik a kilt skirt and a pretty ples, who will take your measure." face, sitting directly opposite him, said, "Ohl" ia a mild kind of a siriek, and then giggled, a tall; thin woman ia a and an ungular woman in a calico dress and a gray shawl, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; and how often do the majority of people feel like giving it startled duet, a fat woman with a small herd of children and a market basket shouted "Well!" and then immediately planted her planten hards over how been startled from her, and a tall, rawboned woman who wore horn spectacles and talked bass, said "The poor iamb!" in such sepulchral tones that everybody else laughed, and Mr. Thumbledirk, who didn't just exactly know whether she meant him or the baby, blushed scarlet and felt his face grow so hot he could smell his hair.

The baby opened its blue eyes wider than any man who never owned a baby would have believed it possible, and stared at Mr. Thumbledirk with an expression of alarm, and a general lack of confidence that boded a distressing want of harmony in all further proceedings. Mr. Thumbledirk viewing these signs of restlessness with inward aiarm, conceived the huppy idea that the baby needed a change of position. So he stood it upou its feet. It is unnecessary to tell nuy mother of a fumily that by the execution of this apparently very simple movement, the unhappy mun had every thread of that baby's clothes under its arms and around its neck in un instant. A general but suppressed giggle went around the room. Mr. Thumbiedirk blushed, redder and hotter than ever, and the astonished buby, after one horritled look at its strange guardian, whimpered uneasily and then suddenly doubled itself un into so small a knot that the poor man had to hold his two hands close together, like a bowl, and hold the baby as he would hold a pint of sand, and these transitions from the one extreme to the other were made with such startling rapidity and appalling suddenness, that Mr. Thumbledirk had to be constantly on the alert, and his arms ached so, and he exhibited such signs of fatigue and distress that the depot pollceman looker in to say to him that if he was tired our he would send in a section hand or the steam shovel to give him a speli.

It seemed to Mr. Thumbledirk that he never heard so much noise com from so smail a baby in his life. The more he turned it around and tossed l about the more its cloak und dress, and skirts and things became entangled around its neck, and now and then the mass of drapery would get over the baby's face and stille its cries for a second, but the uoise would come ont stronger than ever when the tossing little hands would tear away the obstruction. And the louder bahy scremued the faster the vigorous, fat legs flew, kicking la every directiou, like crazy tly-wheels with the rlm off.

Sometimes Mr. Thumbledirk made as high as a huudred and eighty grabs a miunte at those legs and never touched one of them. He was hot and blind and wild with terror and confusion. Once he tried to sing to the baby, . but when he quavered out a "Hootely, pootchy, puddin' aud pie,"

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not slways, cured by its use. Nothfolicies are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its accasional use will prevent the hair becasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.
